

Need More Muscle?

Power Up with PGAMA's New Job Board

PGAMA's free resume and job posting service has toned up to help you find the employees you need. This popular member benefit now provides exciting new features for employers and job seekers alike, such as job searches defined by location, salary, title, and more. The service has also been expanded by a partnership with PrintWorkers.com.

PrintWorkers.com is a national job site for the printing industry. Using their listing service is an optional feature of the free PGAMA service. With it, employers can expand their search at a deeply discounted rate with no additional input required—the PrintWorkers directory pulls your info from the PGAMA listing. Also included with the PrintWorkers.com service are these abilities:

For Employers

- Tracking job views and applications
- Cloning job postings
- Adding company info and website link
- Making jobs confidential
- E-blasts to those whose skills match posted jobs
- Anonymous profile searches of job seekers
- Rating and scoring job applicants
- Communicating within the site to applicants that have applied to open positions
- Making job posting from the PGAMA site active in the GAIN Job Bank after purchased job token is applied (50% off single postings, 1/3 off all resume posting packages)
- Free access to Printing and Graphics Scholarship Foundation's (PGSF) scholarship recipients

For Job Seekers

- Developing a searchable profile
- Writing a resume by either uploading a .doc or PDF, or by using the resume creation process
- Creating Job Agents (used to define types of positions they are interested in and alerts them when there is a match)
- Checking how often a resume was reviewed
- Searching for positions by key word, geographic area, salary range, or shift. They can also search by job ID number, which is included via email to each job seeker in email blasts about new positions available

Start bulking up your workforce today by going to the new pgama.com and clicking on the Job Bank link. PGAMA members, use your member login to access the job board.